The EMCA Biennial Home Tour and Art Walk was fantastic! We were successful thanks to your efforts and contributions. I think almost everyone would agree that the neighborhood pulled together truly as a “Living Mosaic”: homeowners, restaurants, artists, and volunteers.

Part of what makes a house a home is the smell of savory food when one walks through the door. We are thankful to our local restaurants for pairing a sampling at homes: Chef Soren Pedersen, Cowboys & Indians, Midtown Bar&Grill, and Me'lange.

Please patronize these restaurants and tell them how much you enjoyed their tastings at our tour!

There is a lot of creativity and talent within our “four walls”: Montrose, West Gray, Genesee, and Fairview.

We are proud to have been able to provide a glimpse of this talent and are grateful to the artists for opening up their studios: Penny Cerling, Joan Son, Sunny McKinnon, Suzanne Starr, Jim Wilson, Keiko Kinsey, Gerida Brown, Larry Crawford, Cindy Shung, Anderson Fair, Constance Braden, Fantasy Gallery, Josena Arqueta, and Maureen McNamara.

Each home on the tour is a true representation of our neighborhood: authentic, original with room for individual flair. We appreciate your willingness to open your homes and hospitality: Lee Hudman, NuNu Chang & Andrew Albers, Bob McLaughlin & Christopher Robbins, Mike Ashmore, and Patricia Bell.

Last but certainly not least, this event would not have been possible if it weren't for our many volunteers. A BIG THANK YOU to Rodney Coon, Jim Tucker, Emily Holdsworth, Lynda Rousseau, Mike McHam, Agelia Marquez, Mark Weesner, Frank Plischke, Ben Sloan, Shelly Ray, Mark Lankford, Maureen Taylor, Anthony Nankivell, Joshua Utay, Netanya Utay, Anne Rice, Ronnie Koehn, Ralph Moorehouse, Courtney Chillis-Cohill, Sharon Ruhly, Violet Kelley, Brooks Brown, Julie Young, Melinda Sturgess, Sherry Weesner, Susan Swails, Peggy Rogers, Rhonda Cook, Kirste Reimers, Beth Knapp, David & Karen Holan, Kay Shepard, Claudia Kolker, Karen Moorehouse, Mary Quinn, Julia Schafer, Melisa Galvan, Heather Lambert and Karen Brohn.

You can view pictures at:

and soon we'll have them up on <http://www.eastmontrose.org/events/home-tour/>

A lot of effort went into making this a success. Rest up, the countdown to 2021 has begun and we have a challenge on our hands as the 2019 Tour and Walk has raised the bar!

Several “East Montrose – A Living Mosaic” signs are still available if you want one to display on your property. These sturdy signs are $75 each. Please contact our treasurer Julia Schafer at 281-221-3250 to make your purchase. Julia also asks to remind you that EMCA dues are now up for renewal. See the back page for more info.

The recent spring rains, along with the finally-it's-warm spring weather, have encouraged growth in gardens and green spaces. All very pretty – but some foliage has grown to block stop signs and the view of on-coming traffic. If you live on a corner with a traffic sign, please go out with a clippers and make sure that tree branches or ground vegetation are not obscuring the sign. And check that low-growing plants are not blocking drivers' views. What you see standing on a sidewalk may not be what a driver sees from his spot in the street.

As an alternative, you can contact 311 to report obscured traffic signs. I am a little disgruntled that none of the locations I've reported have been cleared of obstructions, even though the city sent notices saying that the cases had been investigated and closed.

HOW I MET MY NEIGHBORS. A LATE NIGHT STORY

It was a Sunday evening, and I had come back from dinner and margaritas at el Tiempo Cantina Annex. 'El Tiempo margaritas' pretty much tells much of the story right there. I was in PJs, with my usual mess of unruly hair, and stepped outside to put trash in the bin. A girl in a white summer dress was on the sidewalk, all in a dither, babbling something about flickering lights. She was concerned because she had seen lights flickering on and off in the windows of a house across the street. She worried that there might be an electrical problem, and that a fire might start. Her boyfriend was a few paces away, rolling his eyes, as if to say, "Here she goes again."

I didn't know the people across the street; they had just recently moved in. I told her, "Surely it's nothing. Just let it alone." But she was REALLY concerned that something was dangerously wrong across the street.

Turns out this gal lives a few blocks away, right up my street. I had never met her before. But we formed an alliance.

"Well," I said, "It's not 10:00 yet, and the lights are on... let's go knock on the door." And so we did.

The door was opened quickly by a man and a woman. The girl in the white dress apologized for the late night interruption, and then burst out about the flickering lights and her fears of an electrical threat. I was standing behind, stammering a little in a light alcohol haze about living right across the street.

Now, anyone who has lived in this neighborhood for any length of time knows that this is the point where you slam the door. But our new neighbors said, "Come in, won't you please?"

And so we did. We were greeted by a very gracious and kind couple, who obviously had no fears of wild women on their doorstep. Turns out the husband HAD been playing with lights. As it was a new home, he was flipping them on and off to see which switch worked which lights.

Relief – no fire danger here!

We had a quick but very pleasant visit. They are quite friendly and open, and had already taken steps to get in touch with the civic club. In fact, they already knew something of me, through having read this newsletter column. They expressed a desire to meet people in the neighborhood. Well, my new friend and I had just helped them check off that box! :)

I'm not making fun of the neighbor, but I had this extra space to fill so I couldn't resist finding something funny (ish) related to this event. Editor.

Office of New Americans and Immigrant Communities (ONAIIC)

ONAIIC reaches out to the city's diverse immigrant and refugee communities to facilitate their successful civic, economic and cultural integration into Houston. Outreach initiatives include language access assistance to connect residents to city and community services and inform them about their rights under Title VI of the Civil Rights Act. The office promotes civic engagement and enlists community experts to serve on city advisory committees. ONAIIC also partners with local entities to address community issues and promote cultural sharing and understanding.

After being closed for a couple of years from fire damage, The Printing Museum has been beautifully renovated and has opened two exhibitions that will run through December 21.

Where I Come From: The Works and Influences of Charles Criner
May 17, 2019 - December 21, 2019

This retrospective exhibition documents 55 years of the professional and personal life and his influences of Master Printer, Charles Criner. The exhibition spans from his student years at Texas Southern University, under renowned artist, educator, and mentor John T. Biggers, through his career as an instructor, illustrator, advertising artist, Artist-in-Residence and now Master Printer at The Printing Museum. It features original works of art, drawings, cartoons, video interviews, and prints. The extensive exhibition commanding seven galleries includes works curated from private collections, The Charles Criner Papers and Art Collection of the Cushing Library at Texas A&M University, Texas Southern University, and The Printing Museum's permanent collection.

Joan Son: Paper Couture

June 7 - December 21, 2019

Paper Couture is an installation of retro-inspired fashions by origami artist, Joan Son. Based upon her original paper doll dress designs from 1958, Paper Couture traces Son's use of a variety of paper techniques to create full-size dress sculptures which honor the past and open a portal to the present.

Joan is an American artist and resident of East Montrose who has devoted her career to the exploration of contemporary origami as fine art. Since 1964, when she first learned to fold the traditional crane, Son has been intrigued with the art, math and magic of paper folding. Her professional origami career debuted in the windows of Tiffany & Co. in the spring of 1993.
